Kansas last night. With the exception of those near Hamilton and Aliceville and vicinity, only minor damage was done. In Greenwood and Coffey counties five distinct funnel-shaped clouds formed at about the same time. The two largest of these clouds struck near Aliceville, and, traveling southwest, destroyed buildings and crops over a strip a quarter of a mile in width. At Aliceville every one of the fifty houses in town was either totally wrecked or moved from its foundation. The two general merchandise stores there, one owned by T. C. Jones and the other belonging to D. R. Grant, were totally wrecked, and the entire contents destroyed. On the opposite side of the street two blacksmith shops, a lumber yard and the Methodist church, as well as the Missouri Pacific depot, were demolished.

Crushed by Falling Timbers.

At Aliceville but one person, William Bruce, was seriously hurt. He was crushed by falling timbers and will probably die. Southwest of Aliceville, in Coffey county, heavy damage was done to farming property. The farm house of John Earlwine was town to pieces and four members of the family indured, but none dangerously.
